

MOONCHARTS

Exocharts - Single Prints

What is a Single Print ?

- A Single Print is the price level of the profile where a single TPO letter is printed at a particular price. It indicates the market reaction to that price level. It appears when you are doing some quick move up or down.

What Can we expect on it ?

If you are higher than the SP :

- You expect the top to act as support
- If you get acceptance in the SP, you expect it to be filled (so to go minimum to the low of the SP)
- The low of the SP act as support

If you are lower than the SP :

- You expect the low to act as resistance
- If you get acceptance in the SP, you expect it to be filled (so to go minimum to the top of the SP)
- The Top of the SP act as resistance.

How can you trade it ?

Please go on the website and watch at the video :

<https://mooncharts.fr/course/exo-course/exo3/>

Tips :

- Always get confluence for a higher probability trade
- Check the order flow on exocharts to determine if you have or not to take the trade
- Make a plan

